South Central Network of Care (SCNC) LOGO Design Contest

BACKGROUND

The South Central Network of Care is a regional partnership that strives to build a system or “Network of Care” that meets the behavioral health needs of all children. To do this, we partner with anyone who is interested in children’s health including family and community members, and providers that serve children, youth, and families. Our goal is to coordinate and integrate behavioral health services across all child-focused systems, such as early care and education, K-12 education, pediatric primary care, youth justice, child welfare, recreation and more.

The South Central Network of Care includes the towns of Ansonia, Bethany, Branford, Derby, East Haven, New Haven, Guilford, Hamden, Madison, Milford, New Haven, North Branford, North Haven, Orange, Seymour, Shelton, West Haven, and Woodbridge. The South Central Network of Care is part of the Connecting to Care initiative www.connectingtocarect.org
